

Accounting and Financial Reporting

E-learning: HKFRS 18 in Focus - Practical Insights for Implementation

COURSE HIGHLIGHTS:

Are you ready to navigate the transformative changes brought by HKFRS 18 Presentation and Disclosure in Financial Statements? HKFRS 18 introduces new requirements that affect all companies in all industries as to how they present and disclose financial performance in financial statements. HKFRS 18 will be effective from 1 January 2027, with retrospective application. To help companies prepare for the implementation of HKFRS 18, the Institute held the live webinar: *Unlocking HKFRS 18 – An Overview of New Presentation and Disclosure Requirements in 2024.

After gaining an overview of HKFRS 18, it is time to delve into the key aspects of HKFRS 18 and their implications for your companies. This e-learning will provide a brief recap of the key requirements of HKFRS 18 and highlight the likely impact on companies in Hong Kong in general and how they should prepare for the implementation in 2025/26.

In particular, the speaker will address the practical issues and challenges in the following areas:

- Presentation and disclosures of expenses classified in the operating category;
- Determination of main business activities and specified main business activities;
- Determination of categories of income and expenses for specific transactions and scenarios;
- Determination of management-defined performance measures and related disclosures; and
- Classification of interest and dividend cash flows in the statement of cash flows.

* The webinar was recorded and made available for enrolment as e-learning.
