

ForensIG Spring Debate and Cocktail Event 2018

About the topic

The Forensics Interest Group (ForensIG) will be hosting its annual spring debate and cocktail event in March.

Our topic of this year's debate will be: "This house believes that for a better society, we need more regulation vs. This house believes that for a better society, we need less regulation". Since Donald Trump has become the US president, he has been fulfilling his pledges given during his campaigns, including his promises on fewer regulations for business in general, and banks specifically. This may lead to situations where other countries may follow suit to attract more investment. So, the question posed in the debate is – Do we need more or less regulation? Which would be more beneficial to the future development of the world?

This will be an excellent opportunity to enjoy a lively and light-hearted debate, and network with fellow members and guests from the forensics and other fields in a more informal and relaxed atmosphere.
