

Property, Infrastructure and Construction Interest Group Cocktail Reception

The Haunting Past: Tales of Hong Kong street names

Numerous streets have been laid out in Hong Kong, Kowloon and New Territories over the years accompanying the continuous development and population growth of the city. Nomenclature of them is done by the government following a certain pattern which varied for different districts and at different periods of time. While tens of thousands of Hong Kongers are commuting in the city every day, few of us have any knowledge on the origin of the streets where we live and work.

At the upcoming Property, Infrastructure and Construction Interest Group annual cocktail reception, Prof. Ting Sun Pao, Joseph (丁新豹教授) will talk about the origin of some of the earlier streets in Hong Kong, by highlighting the following aspects:

- nomenclature of the streets;
- evolution of the street naming patterns over the years, with emphasis on its relationship with the colonial government's governing policy;
- some streets with interesting Chinese translated names.

This is also an excellent opportunity to meet and network with fellow members.
