

Anti-corruption Information Disclosure in ESG Reports (re-run)

Programme Code: SCPD19082001

Hong Kong listed companies face growing demand by their stakeholders for transparency and disclosures of non-financial information. In light of this, Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing (HKEX) upgraded the environmental, social and governance (ESG) reporting requirements in 2016, requiring listed companies to disclose, among others, information about their anti-corruption policies and compliance with relevant laws and regulations on a "comply or explain" basis.

An effective anti-bribery management system is a key element of good corporate governance. The Corruption Prevention Department of ICAC has conducted a review of listed companies' first ESG disclosure of anti-corruption information under the upgraded ESG reporting requirements. In this seminar, the speakers will share their observations and insights of the review, and discuss good practices in anti-corruption information disclosure, to help listed companies comply with the reporting requirements and enhance stakeholders' understanding and confidence in the companies' governance system.

After joining this seminar, participant will gain knowledge about:

- HKEX's ESG reporting requirements in relation to disclosure of anti-corruption information
- Observations of ICAC's review of listed companies' anti-corruption information disclosure
- Recommendation of core elements and good practices in anti-corruption information disclosure based on the ICAC review findings and international standards/ practices
- Corruption Prevention Advisory Service of ICAC and its free, confidential and tailored-made advisory services for listed companies
