Best Corporate Governance Awards series: An investor's perspective on good ESG reporting

About the topic

With increasing investor interest in sustainable and ethical investment, the preparation of relevant, meaningful and reader-friendly sustainability reports has become a key element of appropriate corporate disclosure from the standpoint of many institutional and other prospective investors.

In this event, experienced practitioners, Vincent Pang and Sabrina Lam, both of AVISTA Group, will discuss the investors' perspective, including what investors will normally look for in sustainability reports, what their concerns are, practical tips to enhance the quality of corporate reporting and disclosure, etc. They will illustrate this with case examples.

Assessment of the quality of sustainability and social responsibility reporting, and recognition of excellence in this area, are core elements of the Institute's prestigious Best Corporate Governance Awards (BCGA), which have recently celebrated their 20th anniversary. The Awards are regarded as an exacting and objective benchmark of corporate governance and sustainability standards among listed companies and public sector organisations in Hong Kong.
