Best Corporate Governance Awards series: Refinements of our Awards, and application of our criteria

About the topic

The Institute's long-established corporate governance awards are being rebranded and revamped in 2021, to recognise the increasing importance of sound environmental, social and governance (ESG) practices and reporting, in addition to good corporate governance. The focus is shifting increasingly towards benchmarking the overall resilience and sustainability of listed companies and public sector organisations.

In the e-seminar, the chairs of the Awards Organising Committee and the Awards Review Panel, Loren Tang and Patrick Rozario, respectively, outline the changes and discuss some of the main areas assessed in the Awards, together with examples. The areas include:

CG	ESG
1. CG statement & practice	1. ESG strategy
2. Board structure & functioning	2. ESG governance
3. Risk management and internal control	3. Report content, e.g. stakeholders' inclusiveness, sustainability context
4. Remuneration	4. Performance indicators
5. Nomination	5. Independent assurance
