

ESG Workshop on Carbon Accounting

Programme Code:
WSHP23011201

Nowadays, companies are actively combating the adverse effects of climate change. Increasingly, these companies strive to reach a status of "net-zero" or "carbon neutrality", which requires accurate reporting on their carbon reduction efforts.

As a professional accountant, you should be familiar with how financial transactions pertaining to a business should be recorded and measured. But how about carbon? Like financial accounting, carbon accounting focuses on quantifying the impact of an entity's business activities – though instead of quantifying traditional financial impact, it measures climate impact.

Carbon accounting helps companies to understand their overall emissions among itself (Scope 1 and 2 emissions) and its value chain (Scope 3 emissions). This will allow the company's management to make better business decisions by understanding the emissions from current operation, steering away from choices that may impact their ability to achieve their carbon reduction goals, and plan various climate-related scenarios to better respond to positive and negative scenarios arising from climate change.

What exactly is carbon accounting, how do you calculate it, and why should your business care about it?

This workshop is created to assist members of HKICPA to strengthen their technical knowledge of Carbon Accounting. Click here for an introductory video (in Cantonese with English subtitle) about the workshop.

In this workshop, the speakers will cover:

- Latest information on ESG
  - Current ESG trends and standards, globally and locally
  - Latest and upcoming ESG regulations in Hong Kong
- Carbon Accounting
  - Introduction on standards and reporting requirements of greenhouse gas
  - How to calculate Scope 1, 2, and 3 emissions
  - Data collection (including value chain (Scope 3) emission)
  - Climate scenario analysis planning
  - Practical insights

About the speakers

Mr. John Sayer, Director, Deloitte – Sustainability & Climate

Mr. Sayer has a background in sustainability and human development, climate change and governance policy. He previously provided services on Science-based target setting, scenario planning, stress testing, net-zero pathways and climate risk management.

Mr. Sayer also conducts professional sustainability training, such as workshops on climate and sustainability developed and delivered for HK Institute of Bankers, Treasury Markets Association, British Consulate General, HK Independent Non-Executive Directors Association, the Human Capital Leadership Institute (Singapore) and individual clients.

Mr. Mac Ma, Associate Director, Deloitte – Sustainability & Climate

Mr. Ma has over ten years of international experience in the spheres of carbon profiling, auditing and reporting, as well as research and development of carbon credit projects and emissions trading systems. He has led the development of around 200 carbon projects using a variety of international methodologies, including UNFCCC CDM, Gold Standard, VCS and China's pilot carbon trading system guidelines. He is an ISO 14064 GHG Lead Verifier.

Mr. Ma is lecturer of HKGFA & HKFSI. He has done several training sessions for national level organizations in China such as NDRC, CESI and for local government such as Shenzhen DRC and Chongqing DRC.

Mr. Dickson Pak, Manager, Deloitte – Sustainability & Climate

Mr. Pak has coordinated projects relating to ESG, sustainable development, sustainable procurement, and provided trainings on the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), waste management, carbon emissions and ecolabelling to corporates in Hong Kong.

Mr. Pak recently completed the ISO 14064 Lead GHG Verifier training and Certified Carbon Auditor Training Course by the Energy Institute, UK.
